

DERMATOLOGICAL TEST CERTIFICATE

Go-Clean Industrial Hand Wash · Issued: 19 May 2010

Original dermatological certification by Dr. K. Jagaroop Singh, Consultant Dermatologist, for Go-Clean hand wash. Reproduced in full; content unaltered.

Dr. K. Jagaroop Singh M.B.B.S., M.D., D.V.D.

Consultant Dermatologist, Venereologist & Leprologist K.M. C. Reg. No. 17639
216, 68th Cross, 5th Block, Rajajinagar, Bangalore-560010
(Near Venkat International Public School). Ph: 23351637)

Date: 19.05.2010

To whom so ever it may concern

M/s. Goclean Products Pvt Ltd., Bangalore, have approached me to study the irritant nature of their product "Goclean".

I have been explained that this product is a hand wash for the specific use of mechanics and workers in factories to wash their hands off grease and machine oil. The ingredients used in the hand wash and the evolution of the product have been shown to me. The copy listing ingredients and the evolution of the product is enclosed as annexure to this document and should be considered as part of this document. The company tells me that the product has been extensively tried before launching and is being marketed for the last two years without a single complaint about its dermatological ill effects.

In the light of the above information I have conducted the usage test. Five volunteers were asked to dirty their hands with used grease and wash with Goclean hand wash. They smeared about two gram of the product on their hands with a little water, and washed off the hand wash and dirt with around 1.5 liter of water. The hands were seen to be cleaned of grease and no irritation was reported. The test was repeated 3 more times at different occasions with the same result and no signs of primary irritant dermatitis were seen.

I am of the opinion that the product can be safely used as Hand Wash for greasy and oily hands.

Dr. K. Jagaroop Singh

Dr. K. JAGAROOP SINGH
M.B.B.S., M.D., D.V.D.
Skin Specialist, Venereologist,
Leprologist